JANET'S FORTUNE.

"And when I die I shall leave my fortune to the one who will use it to the best advantage," said Grandma Leeds, smiling from behind her spectacles, to the young girls around her.

"Your fortune, grandma? What will it be? That old basket, with its horrid yarn and needles, and the never ending knitting work? If so, you need not leave it to me. Janet will use it to a far better advantage than I could.

"Yes, Lettie, you are right; and I'm sure I don't want it, either. Hem, what a fortune, to be sure!"

"I'll accept it, grandma, and prize it, if you will only add your sweet, contented disposition. It would be a fortune which none of us need despise."

Janet Leeds was the youngest of the family and the plainest. She had a sweet, fresh face, and tender eyes; but these paled into ugliness before Lettie's black and shining curls, and the blonde loveliness of the belle Margaret. So she settled back into the chimney corner, and waited on grandma, or assisted the maid in the housework.

Once in a while she ventured out to a party in the village, but so seldom, that people never observed her. That made it unpleasant, and she staid at home still closer.

But on that morning, while they sat chatting with grandma, she felt a deal of real discontentment, for the first time in months.

Clara Bosworth, her bosom friend, was to give a party that evening, and she could not go. For weeks preparations had been going on in their quiet family. She had given up the money saved for a winter cloak, that Lettie's green silk might be retrimmed for the occasion, and the best dress she had in the world was a plain, garnet colored poplin with black velvet trimmings.

She had faintly suggested that she might wear that, but the cry of dismay from her sisters silenced her.

"Go and wear that old poplin?" cried Lettie, from the clouds of white billowy lace that was to adorn the green silk. "You must be crazy!"

"I should think so," chimed Margaret, who was fitting a lace berth over the delicate lilac satin. "Do you want Austin Bosworth to think us a family of paupers? It is to be a grand affair, and Clara expects all who honor it with their presence to pay her respect enough to dress respectably. It is Austin's first appearance after his European tour, and surely you do not want him to think meanly of us?"

The tears came up, but Janet was brave, and no one saw them.

That night when the two girls—the one in her dark beauty and wonderfully becoming array, the other all delicacy, her fair, pearl loveliness enhanced by the pale purple color of her splendid dress—came laughing into grandma's room, a little shadow darkened her face, and she found it very hard to keep back the tears.

"Fine feathers make fine birds, but fine birds do not always sing the sweetest, Jane," said grandma, after they were gone. "I know who is the true one in this family. I know my little singing bird, Jane, and she is dearer than a dozen fine ladies. Austin and Clara will come to-morrow, and he will tell us about his travels in foreign lands, and you will be far happier than you would be up at the house to night, with dancing and confusion."

"I suppose to, grandma," and Janet took her seat by the fire and went on knitting, with a peaceful face.

The eldest sister came home with crumpled plumage, but in high spirits.

Austin Bosworth had returned, a handsome, polished gentleman, and flirted desperately with Lettie.

"Why, grandma, he almost proposed to her!" laughed Margaret, who is engaged to Judge Denard's hopeful son, and, therefore, had no place for jealousy. "More than one of the company predicted that it would be a match."

"Don't count your chickens before they are hatched," called grandma from her pillow. "Mr. Austin Bosworth is no fool. I can tell you!"

"What an old croker!"

They were entering their chamber across the hall, but grandmother's ears were not dulled by age, and she clearly heard them.

"Don't mind them, grandma," whispered Janet, who waited to help them lay aside their finery.

"Mind them? Do you think I shall, Janet Leeds?"

Next day Austin Bosworth came. He was too familiar with the old house to stop for the bell-ringing, and he entered, crossing the hall directly past the parlor door, where tasteful afternoon costumes, and walked straight on to Grandma Leeds' room.

She was there with her work, her placid face beaming beneath the white lace-bordered cap.

A graceful, girlish figure half knelt beside her, wreathing, with deft fingers, a bunch of evergreens into a frame for a mantle ornament, and her eyes were lifted smiling into the old lady's face.

He entered and closed the door, before either saw him.

"Grandma Leeds!"

"Why, bless my heart, it is Austin! Come here, my boy!"

And the gentleman came, and gave both hands to her in his delight.

"Jane, my little playmate, too!—What a happy meeting! Clara came down dressed for a call, and declared she would come, but I told her no! I knew the amount of gallantry I should feel obliged to use, and I preferred that my first visit should be like the old ones."

"You are right. We are better pleased to have it so, are we not, Janet?"

His call lengthened itself into two hours, and during the time he told pleasant stories and chatted like the boy of bygone days, but not once did Margaret's or Lettie's name pass his lips.

When he went away he met them coming, with disappointed faces, from the parlor, where they had been waiting for him; but he only lifted his hat and passed out. Then grandmother and Janet received a sound scolding, such as only these two knew how to give, and the shadows of discontent again fell on Janet's spirit.

Ah, that long, cheerless winter! What a story Janet could tell you of disappointments, of happy parties of which she had no share, of moonlight rides, of joy and merriment! She had only that one comforter, kind, patient grandma; for now that Austin Bosworth had come the way was harder than before.

He came and escorted Lettie to parties, and sometimes chatted with grandma, but nothing more. She saw nothing more—she did not catch the good-natured smiles he gave her from the sleigh as he rode away—and Lettie never told her how often he asked for her. Alone with grandma, Janet wished for better things, and wondered why she was so harshly dealt with.

At last, even the society of her aged comforter was denied her, and in her bed the old lady gradually faded away. Day and night Janet sat beside her, with the knowledge that she was beyond earthly help—waiting upon her, yielding to the childish whims, and shutting out every thing youthful and beautiful from her sight.

"Playing household angel," Margaret said.

"Working for grandma's fortune of old shoes and worsted stockings," Lettie cruelly added. "Doing her duty by the faithful woman who had taken the three motherless children into her heart, and filled the lost one's place, so far as God permitted," her own heart said, and steadily she worked on.

The first of May brought invitations the last ball at the Bosworth house, and while the two other sisters laid out their finery, Janet folded her tiny missive, and hid it away next to her heart as a sacred bit of paper bearing Austin's firm, broad chirography upon it.

That night grandma was very ill, and when Margaret and Lettie fluttered in with their gay dresses, Janet met them, and almost forcibly put them out of the room.

"I beg you, girls, to have a little respect for poor grandma—she is very ill to-night,"

"Nonsense! Don't be a fool Janet—anybody would think she was dying."

"I believe she is."

There reply came in a violent slam of the door, and Janet was left alone with her patient.

The hours dragged wearily, and over come by her long, sleepless watches, Janet fell fast asleep.

Two hours later she awoke with a start, and in an instant she saw that dread change visible in grandma's face.

Like one in a dream, she walked to her father's door, and awakened him.

"Father, grandma is worse. I believe her dying. You must go to Dr. Berne. You will find him at the ball. Go quickly!

She went back, and sat there wearily waiting for something—for, a sound sign from the dying woman; but none came. Slowly, but perceptibly the lines settled around her pleasant mouth, and the dark shadows crept over the placid face, but no sound issued from the pale lips

Janet bent her head. There was a faint flutter—no more, and she clasped her hands. Would grandmamma die there before her eyes and never speak a word?

She caught the cold hand in her own, and cried aloud:

"Grandma! speak to me! speak to your little Janet! Don't you heed me, grandma?

But grandma heard nothing. The chill tipes of death had settled down, and even as she knelt there, the breath fled and Janet was alone.

She understood it all when she arose, and she sank back half fainting in the arm-chair, near the bed.

"Janet, my poor darling!"

She lifted her head. Austin Bosworth was leaning over her.

"My little girl! Why did you not send word to me to-night, and let me share your sorrow?"

"You, Austin?"

"Yes, have I not—. Ah, forgive me! This is no time or place. I missed you as I always missed you, but thought it was your own pleasure to remain at home. When your father came in with a white frightened face, and whispered to Dr. Berne, I knew you were in trouble. I came at once, and Janie, I shall not again leave you."

She knew his meaning, and did not put him away, when he held her close in his arms and drew her into the parlor.

Margaret and Lettie coming in with their faces horror-stricken, saw him holding in his arms, her tired head resting wearily upon his shoulder, and the proud Lettie said:

"Mr. Bosworth, I am surprised!"

"You need not be. This is my privilege, now and forever."

Three days after they gathered in that same parlor to hear grandma's last will and testament read. After some little directions, it said:

"And to my beloved grand-daughter, Janet Leeds, I bequeath the Holmes estate, together with my entire stock of furniture and money amounting to ten thousand dollars."

Janet's father smiled upon his astonished and crest fallen daughters.

"It was mother's whim! She never desired it to be known. Therefore you were ignorant of the fact that she had a dollar beyond the annuity I held for her."

When six months later, Austin and Janet were married, her elder sister dared to say that he married her for her money. He knew better, and so did I.

A Prety Temperance Story.

The bystanders in the vicinity of a well known drinking saloon a few days ago, noticed a man considerably intoxicated, who was accompanied by a handsome English coach dog. The man pursued his devious course, closely followed by his four-footed companion, until at length he approached the door of the saloon referred to, and was about to enter, when, to the surprise of all who witnessed the affair, the dog jumped up and catching the skirts of the man's coat, sought to prevent him from going in.

The inebriated biped spoke in angry tones to the beast, but without avail until at length a more than ordinarily severe command induced him to relinquish his hold, and the man hastened inside, followed by his faithful companion and would be protector.

Actuated simply by curiosity, we in company with several others, went in, and as we gained a position near the bar, we saw in close proximity thereto the beast and his master, the latter striving to reach the bar, and the former standing on his hind legs, with his fore paws placed against the man's breast, vainly endeavoring, even at the eleventh hour, to prevent him from indulging in the intoxicating cup.

To the credit of the bar tender be it stated, that he refused to furnish the man with any more liquor, and tears were drawn from eyes that had long been unused to the melting mood, as at each refusal the undoubtedly heart stricken canine would bestow a look of intense gratitude upon the dispenser of cocktails, "slings" and "tods," and then turning, would, with a most imploring look, mutely beseech his liquor loving master to abstain from "pressing his peppermint."

At this juncture we left the scene, and while quietly wending our way officewards, could not help reflecting what a powerful argument in favor of prohibition could be drawn from the above incident.—Boston Times.

OLD THAD. STEVENS WAS AN ORIGINAL.—He desired a simple tablet laid level over his grave, but said, "I suppose, like the rest of the fools, we shall have to get something stuck up in the air; let it be plain." He wished flowers planted at once above his remains and renewed often, and for this purpose he left $1000. For flowers he had a passion—he planted them always upon his mother's grave; also for music, though he said, "I'll be hanged if I know one tune from another." When urged not to talk about the matter of his funeral and the arrangements of his grave, his reply was, "Why not? I am settling up my busines, and this is business."

Love for the Dead.

The grave is the ordeal of true affection. It is there that the divine passion of the soul manifests its superiority to the instinctive impulse of mere animal attachment. The latter must be continually refreshed and kept alive by the presence of its object; but the love that is seated in the soul can live on long remembrance. The mere inclinations of sense languish and decline with the charms which excited them, and turn with disgust from the dismal precincts of the tomb; but it is thence that truly spiritual affection rises purified from every sensual desire, and returns, like a holy flame to illumine and sanctify the heart of the survivor.

The sorrow for the dead is the only sorrow from which we refuse to be divorced. Every other wound we seek to heal, every other affliction to forget; but this wound we consider it a duty to keep open,—this affliction, we cherish, and brood over in solitude. Where is the mother who would willingly forget the infant that perished like a blossom from her arms, though every recollection is a pang? Where is the child that would forget the most tender of parents, though to remember were but to lament? Who, even in the hour of agony, would forget the friend over whom he mourns? Who, even when the tomb is closing upon the remains of her whom he most loved, when he feels his heart, as it were, crushing in the closing of its portals, would accept of the consolation that must be bought by forgetfulness. No; the love which survives the tomb is one of the noblest attributes of the soul. If it has its woes, it has likewise its delights; and when the overwhelming burst of grief is calmed into the gentle tear of recollection, when the sudden anguish and the convulsive agony over the present ruins of all we most loved, are softened away into pensive meditation on all that it was in the days of its loveliness, who would root out such a sorrow from the heart? Though it may sometimes throw a passing cloud over the brightest hours of gayety, or spread a deeper sadness over the hour of gloom, yet who would exchange it even for the song of pleasure, or the burst of revelry? No, there is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song. Oh, the grave! the grave! it buries every error, covers every defect, extinguishes every resentment! From its peaceful bosom spring none but fond regrets and tender recollections. Who can look down upon the grave, even of an enemy, and not feel a compunctious throb, that he should ever have warred with the poor handful of earth that lies mouldering before him?

Ay! go to the grave of buried love, and there meditate; there settle the account with thy conscience for every past endearment unregarded of that departed being, who can never, never, never, return to be soothed by thy contrition! If thou art a child, and hast ever added a sorrow to the soul, or a furrow to the silvered brow of an affectionate parent; if thou art a husband, and hast ever caused the fond bosom that ventured its happiness in thy arms to doubt one moment of thy kindness, or thy truth; if thou art a friend, and hast ever wronged in thy thought, word, or deed, the spirit that generously confided in thee; if thou art a lover, and has ever given one unmerited pang to that true heart which now lies cold and still beneath thy feet; ah! then be sure that every unkind look, every ungracious word, every ungentle action will come thronging back upon thy memory, and knocking dolefully at thy soul; then be sure that thou wilt lie down sorrowing and repentant on the gr

We are now prepared to offer to the people of Centre county, a Great Bargain for the coming year. It is this: To every subscriber who will send us $3.00, in advance, we will send the

and the

for one year. Of the REPUBLICAN we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer, nor house-keeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the REPUBLICAN you save fifty cents, and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money.

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

Change of Base.

The Watchman finding that it could not hood-wink, or "throw dust" in the eyes of the tax-payers of the County, by endeavoring to raise a false issue, has by the order and trickery of the "Ring" and legal advisers, changed its base, and now fights through the columns of the Centre Hall Reporter, published by that sycophant hireling of the "Ring"—Fred Kurtz. Fred, in obedience to the mandates of Meek and his task masters, publishes under the Editorial head, and belches forth the slime of the "Ring"; first against Hon. W. H. Armstrong, our member of Congress; Second against the horrible Radical party and, third against "Bill Brown."

The Watchman commenced it first and charged Mr. Armstrong with dodging the Tariff question, and when we showed them that it was not true—that their charge was false and meanly false, by publishing Mr. Armstrongs speech—one of the very best delivered on that subject the present session, what course did the Watchman pursue? Did the Editors of that paper undeceive their readers by publishing Mr. Armstrong's speech? Did they acknowledge that they had done him a great wrong—that they had wilfully and maliciously published a falsehood? Did they then, or, do they now, say that they are in favor of protecting home industry? They do no such thing. Not a word; but on the contrary let the slanderous falsehood have free course. And now, true to his instincts, their "Cooly" Fred, prints for them that Mr. Armstrong voted land to the Pacific Railroad to aid them in its construction. Is this not a grievous sin? Why did they wait so long to let off the bile? Congress did the same thing towards the Central Pacific R. R., so that the people can now reach California in ten or less days from New York instead of a passage of ninety days by sea, at a heavy expense. Won't the people be mad, when they read this article in the Reporter Poor Fred we pity him. He does not understand it; but he must obey the dictates of the "Ring" and print what his masters indite.

Now listen to the coaxing of the herd, they say, "Remember honest Republicans, that not a single Democrat voted in favor of this great land grab bill." How queer this does read, coming from that quarter. "Honest Republicans"! Wonderful! wonderful the swaps and changes of this world! Where was Judge Woodward, we ask? And again, the "Cooly" Fred says, appealing to Republicans, "If you are honest assist the Democrats in rooting out these thieving plundering rings." To prove the honesty of Republicans they are required to assist the Bandit of modern Democrats. That is asking a little too much, Fred, of honest Republicans. But the second line of the article, we have been striving to obey in goodearnest, "to root out these thieving plundering Rings" who have ruined the County Treasury, without the aid or assistance of the Watchman or Reporter, and our work is telling. The tax-payers are beginning to see that they have been most basely deceived and cheated out of their hard earned money, by this Court House "Ring" and its aiders and abettors the Watchman and Reporter. We see light a-head. An indignant people will soon speak, and when they do, let Kurts and Meek and their "Ring" stand from under.

Next comes a string of "Why's" to put us on a wrong scent; but that cock won't fight, and so as not to be out done in politeness we ask:

"Why did not the Commissioners and County Treasurer compel the tax-collectors for 1868 and previous years, to pay over the taxes collected by them, then pay off the County indebtedness and lower the taxes?

Why did the Commissioners borrow money and pay the illegal and usurous interest of 12 per c't when according to their own showing, they had more money in the hands of their pet and political Collectors uncollected for years, than would pay off all the debt due by the county leaving a surplus?

Why is it that the Commissioners if their own published statement be correct, are compelled to levy a county tax of 6 mills to the dollar when under "honest" Republican rule our County tax was but 2½ mills to the dollar?

Why is it that the Commissioners and Auditors of the County neglect or stubbornly refuse to publish as they are required to do bylaw, an itemized account of the receipts and expenditures of the County? They have not done it. We have frequently called there attention to it, and yet the people the tax-payers are none the wiser. These official servants refuse to comply.

Why is it that the Commissioners have persistantly refused, or, to use a milder word, neglected to publish, for the beoefit and satisfaction of the Pennsvally Democrats as well as for all the people of the County, an itemized statement of what the new jail cost. where the $60,000 went, who got it, how much, if any, each of the Commissioners got—or whether they were cheated in making the "divy" with the "Ring"? And lastly. Why does the Watchman and Reporter attempt to cover up the short-comings and peculations of the "Ring"? And "Why" does the "Cooly" Fred call upon us in the same article to "give the Ring a little rest"?

We have no ill feeling towards the Commissioners, Treasurer or Auditors of the County. Let them only do their duty and we will give them credit for it; but we cannot be led off on false issues, nor cease to point out the gross impositions which are every day being practiced upon the hard fisted yeomanry of the County, until the "Ring" is purified.

WILLIAM B. REED, the well known Democratic lawyer, and aristocrat, of Philadelphia, is a defaulter in the sum of $200,000, and has absconded. He was, at one time, Minister to China, more recently counsel to Jefferson Davis, and has been prominently before the country as the literary defender of his grandfather, Joseph Reed, the Semi-traitorous Adjutant General of George Washington. His recent defalcation has ruined the fortunes of several personal friends.

Will the Watchman, and other Democratic papers, please notice, as they are very generally fond of publishing any such news when some Radical Spear is the unfortunate, or, rascally defaulter.

DOMESTIC INDUSTRY.—A statistical gazetteer, published in Providence, Rhode Island, gives a list, in detail, of four thousand factories in New England alone, as existing in 1869, of which the average production is one hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year, and one-half of which date since 1863; one-fourth dating since 1866. Three hundred of these are on fine woolen clothes, cassimeres and like goods, all of which were imported fifteen years ago, and one-half of which were imported up to 1864. The product of these three hundred factories aggregate forty-five millions of dollars; and of the whole, four thousand one hundred factories embraced in the list about six hundred and fifteen millions of dollars, and this is only for New England.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—The Providence (R. I.) Press of Thursday says: Yesterday afternoon, two ladies, with a baby in a carriage, were walking up North Main street, as the Menagerie was passing along, when an inebriate individual staggering overturned the carriage and spilled the baby. The act roused the mother's ire, and without stopping to pick up her darling, she stepped up to the offender and struck him a square blow on the nose that made the blood flow freely, and also caused said individual to sneak off in double quick time.

PROTECTION is one of the ancient political landmarks. Washington, as President, met the first Congress clad in a suit of domestic cloth, and the second act passed by that Congress had a preamble as follows: "Whereas, it is necessary for the support of Government, for the discharge of our debts, and for the encouragement and protection of manufactures, that duties be laid on goods imported," etc. When we make our fight this fall in Pennsylvania on the Congressional delegation we are but forming again on the old lines and under the old colors.

DEMOCRATIC journals admit the enormous and shameless repeating at the late election in New York, but playfully charge that it was done by Republicans—but for whose unlawful action the Democratic majority would have been even greater than it was.—The figures show that in the Wards in which the repeating swelled enormously the Democratic majority swelled enormously. "I have nothing to say agin them sassengers; I only notice that where them sassengers is plenty, dogs seem sca'ce."

THE CUBAN WAR STEAMER.—It is reported that the Spanish minister has placed a Spanish man-of-war at the disposal of a celebrated New York detective, for the purpose of capturing the Cuban armed steamer Upton, which was reported to have sailed a few days since. She is believed to be not far off, and the detective is confident of taking her within three days. We know not how much credit the rumer is entitled to.

Hunting For Discord And Schism—An Interesting Correspondence.

The following Correspondence will explain itself. It will show how anxious some men are to complain of, or find fault with their neighbors, friends or faithful public servants.

It would seem from the letter of Mr. Brainerd, that "a fierce newspaper wrangle" existed in this Congressional District in regard to the fact of Mr. Armstrong having been paired with Mr. Archer, when the vote reducing the tariff on pig iron was taken. The absence of Mr. Armstrong, was fully and truthfully explained in the columns of the REPUBLICAN three weeks ago, and if there did exist any feeling in regard to this matter before said explanation appeared, we assure the people of this District and of the entire State, that there exists none now, except, perhaps, in the frenzied brain of Mr. Brainerd and two or three other disappointed office seekers.

We give it as our honest conviction, based upon our knowledge of the people of Centre Co., that Hon. W. H. Armstrong is stronger, more esteemed and honored to-day than ever before. His tariff speeches, which we published, have satisfied the friends of protection, and caused them to be proud of their member—proud on account of the noble stand he has taken not only upon the tariff question, but upon all the other important questions now agitating the public mind, and proud of his ability and the reputation he has made for himself thus early in his Congressional career.

It will be seen that the letters of Mr. Archer and Mr. Haldeman fully corroborate and sustain all we published in regard to this matter, and moreover prove how futile was the attempt of Mr. Brainerd to prove "Bill Brown" a liar, as well as his effort to injure Mr. Armstrong, and create discord and schism in the ranks of the Republican party. We can well say, "Cease, viper, you knaw a file!"

It sets very hard upon the tender stomachs of some men to be disappointed in obtaining office. The lost Marshalship was the cause of all this "newspaper wrangle"—this fierce attack upon Mr. Armstrong. The course pursued, however, by Mr. Brainard, in the columns of the National since he failed to make the Deputy Marshalship, is the very best vindication Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong could have, and proves how wise and discreet he was in withholding the appointment from this man Brainerd. But enough; read the correspondence:

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 16, '70.
HON. STEVENSON ARCHER, Dear Sir:—There exists a fierce newspaper wrangle in this Congressional District (Armstrong's) as to whether Mr. W. H. Armstrong was paired with yourself and Hon. R. J. Haldeman at the time the vote was taken, reducing the duty on pig-iron from $9. to $5. per ton by a vote of 66 to 64.

By giving me the facts at your earliest convenience, you will very much oblige

Yours respectfully,

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

W. H. H. BRAINERD, Editor Bellefonte National, Dear Sir:—In reply to yours of the 16th inst., I beg leave to say that the Hon. W. H. Armstrong, before leaving Washington, paired with me on the Tariff Bill.

It was understood that he was in favor of the Bill, as reported from the Committee, and I opposed to it. I refrained from voting in consequence of the arrangement.

Your Ob't Serv't,
STEVENSON ARCHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
May 19, 1870.

W. H. H. BRAINERD, Esq., Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of 16th inst., requesting to know "was or was not Hon. W. H. Armstrong paired with Hon. R. J. Haldeman of Penn'a. "I desire to say that through the friends of Mr. Armstrong, the following arrangement was made with me:

That on all questions involving a reduction of the Tariff, I who am in favor thereof would vote aye, but that Mr. Armstrong who is in favor of retaining or increasing the present duties, would vote no, or rather against my vote upon these terms and upon these questions our votes were paired.

Very Truly Yours,
R. J. HALDEMAN.

Will the Watchman and Centre Hall Reporter have the manliness or honesty to publish this correspondence? Will they, or can they, tell the truth?

GIRARD, Crawford Co., Kansas.
May 13, 1870.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN:—Two years ago the stage coach rumbled through the border tier counties of Kansas, and the weary traveler who would visit the country south of Kansas City was forced to submit to the joltings, the disappointments, and the uncertainties which travel in them always brings. Then the sound of the locomotive was not heard in South-eastern Kansas, and it was doubtful as to whether the iron horse would, for years to come, bring his train of immigration to those counties which lay on the extreme eastern line of this new, but rich and beautiful State. However, Western enterprise, with Eastern capital, will do wonders, and on Wednesday afternoon last, a large excursion train, filled with members of the press, capitalists, &c., came down the Missouri River, Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad, on their way to Baxter Springs, to celebrate the completion of said road to the State line, the road having been commenced and finished through the entire range of country from Kansas City to the Indian Territory, within the two years mentioned.

The train being like an omnibus—always room for one more—the party was increased at this point, one hundred and twenty-five miles south of Kansas City, by several of our citizens, and soon the balance of the distance to the terminus was overcome—forty miles—and the shout of the populace went up as the train reached the depot.

The programme for the celebration being a novel one, and of such a character as only a frontier city could boast, it may not be uninteresting to the people of "Old Centre," and your readers generally, to read a description thereof.

The assembled throng was truly a motley one, and the aboriginal American—"poor Lo"—and the dusky sons of Africa swelled the crowd, so that the white man was not alone rejoicing.—The comical appearance of the semi-barbarous Indian was something that afforded much amusement to the excursionists who were not wont to see "Lo, the poor Indian, whose untutored mind," &c., as he really is. They are naturally given to gaudy colors; they are fond of feathers, and the horrid war-paint still bedaubs their faces.—They also indulge in the luxury of man's nether garment—the shirt—but have a way of their own to wear it.—They wear it outside instead of inside of their trowsers, and you may imagine the blushes that would come to the faces of a bevy of damsels in Bellefonte were they to see a "noble red man" in such dress. They were present in great numbers, men, women and papooses.

Firing a salute was the signal for the commencement of the festivities, and by the light of a bonfire, the Quapaus, Delawares, Senecas, and other Indians, had a war-dance. Their dress is not calculated to make them look very lovely on such occasions, nor is the music soul-stirring. The latter is made by a small drum, and the dance, which was participated in by men and squaws, consists of a walk, and various contortions, but is the same in step and action throughout.

After the red men had their dance, the bold Caucasions repaired to a hall, and indulged in the "light fantastic," and then some went to bed, and some didn't. I didn't. I wasn't sleepy.—One reason, and the main one was, that there was no bed for me.

The next morning (Thursday) a procession was formed, and conducted to a grove near by, where the orations were made. [This grove was the scene of one of the guerilla Quantrells's devilish massacres during the war, he murdering ninety-three Union soldiers, after their surrender, near the spot where the speakers stand was erected.] Among the speakers were Gov. Harvey, of this State, and Col. John H. Storer, ex-Member of Congress from Missouri, and formerly of Bellefonte. The Col. made one of his eloquent speeches, and has not lost any of his oratorical powers since coming west.

After a number of speeches, there was a grand barbacue, having been prepared by the citizens of Baxter, and in the afternoon an Indian canoe race on Spring river, after which the celebration was considered over, the train returning in the evening. Frank H. Forster, from Centre, was also one of the party who participated in the festivities.

The completion of M. R. F. S. & G. Railroad to the northern border of Indian Territory, is a matter of no small importance to the West. The vast herds of cattle that roam the plains of Texas can be shipped North, thus supplying the North and East at any and all times. It will soon be extended farther South, and is to connect with the Texas Central, which is now building from Galveston in this direction, and will furnish us with the means of exchanging the products of the warmer South, for our own, and bringing those of the colder North to our doors, making a continuous line of road from the Lakes to the Gulf.

W. S. McFeaters, formerly a saloonist in your town, was sent to the State Penitentiary for two years, at the last Term of the Circuit Court of this county, for grand larceny. He picked up several lariets on the prairie, which accidentally were fastened to horses. He is fast now, yet not as fast as he was.

One of the most devilish outrages that human fiends were ever guilty of, was perpetrated on the 10th inst., at Ladore, in Neosho county, adjoining this. Seven hands came to that town from the railroad, a number of miles distant, and went to the house of a Mr. Roach. They were intoxicated, and Mr. R. told them there was not room for them in the building, whereupon one of the party knocked him down with a revolver, and left him for dead. They then went to the beds of two servant girls, aged twelve and fourteen years, and ravished them, one after another, during the night. The knife was resorted to in case of the younger of the two, and her cries for mercy. Mr. R. says—who had revived, but was afraid to stir—were heartrending and terrible. About day-break they got into a quarrel among themselves, when one drew a revolver and shot another dead, while in the act of performing his hellish design. The murderer then took the youngest girl and fled to an adjoining woods.—The other five left the room, when Mr. Roach gave the alarm. The citizens were soon aroused, and went in search of the brutes. The man who had abducted the youngest girl to the woods was first overtaken, and hung to the nearest tree. Two of the others were found secreted in town, and shared the fate of their companion, being suspended from the same tree. The other three were making their escape, but their trail was discovered, and they also captured. Two of them stretched hemp, and the other begged for mercy, saying he was not an abettor in the act, and his story having some plausibility, he was turned over to the civil authorities, being now in jail awaiting trial. The girls are in a critical condition, and the youngest cannot recover.

In this case, lynch-law was justifiable, and devils in shape of men, as they were, deserve even a worse fate.

The miners of the Carbon county coal region are agitating the eight-hour question. A vote is now being taken on the subject, and if favorable an attempt will be made to put the system into operation on the first of June.

The Central Pacific Railroad, at San Francisco, on Saturday, purchased the California Pacific Railroad. They take possession in June next. The Central now control the railroad system of the Pacific coast. It is rumored that the Union and Central will also consolidate.

Morristown, May 20.—Thomas Halloran, the wife murderer, was convicted of murder in the second degree in the Court of Oyer and Terminer today. He received the verdict with a smile, and afterward said he was sorry he could not be hung. He will probably receive a sentence of twenty years' imprisonment.

A young married woman named Anna Hoover, jumped into the river at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, it is supposed with intent to commit suicide. A young man saw the act and went to the rescue, and succeeded in saving her life. Family troubles prompted her to attempt self-destruction.

THE difficulties in Dickinson College at Carlisle, Pa., have been satisfactorily adjusted. The order of suspension has been recalled, and the members of the sophomore and junior classes present have resumed their college duties. As they entered the chapel yesterday morning they were enthusiastically received. The absentees will return to examination on June 6, with their classes.

Venezuelan advices of May 9th report the success of the rebels, under Guesnim Blanco. On the 27th of last month, after three days hard fighting, the insurgents succeeded in occupying the Capital; houses and stores were sacked and robberies were carried on to a fearful extent by the soldiers of the victorious party. For a long time Blanco has been plotting to secure the overthrow of the established government, and he has apparently succeeded in his efforts.

Mr. Bassett, colored, Minister of the United States at the Court of Saget, of Hayti, waited on him on the 11th inst., to inform him officially of the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Saget replied with eulogistic remarks on the President and Congress of the United States, and said the people of Hayti would feel much closer allied to the United States on account of the amendment.

The Book Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church are again considering the charges against the Junior Book Agent, who will probably be suspended during the trial.

The United States District Court Grand Jury at Tyler, Texas, yesterday found fifty-four true bills for Internal Revenue frauds against Horace Boughton, ex-Assessor, and Thomas Browning and George R. Santling, ex-Assistant Assessors.

ONE of the most singular sights growing out of the war is a continuous line of peach trees of nearly fifty miles in length, around Petersburg, and extending towards Richmond. They are growing from the breastworks thrown up by the rebel army, and are the only legacy left by the rebels who were on the advance. Having eaten of the fruit while on picket duty, they cast the seed aside, and now they appear in one continuous line of forty-five miles of beautiful trees, which yielded an abundant crop the last year.

THE Bordentown (N. J.) Register says: There is an old French lady in Burlesq'on, a village in Burlington co., named Mrs. A. Phrawend, who is in her 105th year, and attended the ball given at Double Trouble, Ocean county, about two weeks since. She took no part in the dancing, however, but ate her share of the refreshments. She is still in good health and promises to remain with us for an indefinite length of time.

"MOSES" AGAIN.—A Tennessee paper lifts the veil a little from A. J.'s retirement. His ex Accidency is said to have saved up a comfortable fortune from his many offices.—Shortly before leaving the White House he purchased a valuable farm of three hundred and fifty acres, and erected extensive flouring mills on it. His son-in-law, ex-Senator Patterson, resides on this farm, which is situated near Greenville, and runs the mills. Johnson has lately bought also a whole brick block in Greenville, and it is rumored will soon start a bank.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends; and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in larger and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

ROSADALIS.

ROSADALIS

THE GREAT AMERICAN health RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens. Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:
I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro', Tenn., says:
I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by F. P. Green and Druggeats generally.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

PERSONS who range themselves along the gutters on our streets in the evening should be careful how they squirt tobacco juice on the pavements. It is rather annoying to ladies to know that they run the risk of having their clothing stained, and perhaps ruined, when on the street.

MILLINERY.—Miss Mattie Boalich, at the Toll-Gate, near Valentines forges, continues to keep constantly on hand a large assortment of Millinery Goods which she offers for sale at remarkably low prices. She fully understands her business and guarantees satisfaction to all who may favor her with their custom.

NEW GOODS.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Keller & Musser the enterprising merchants on Bishop street, have just received another large and splendid lot of Spring and Summer Goods. These men are well known to the people of Centre county and need no recommendation from us. Call and examine their stock.

SUSPENDED.—The Glass Works at this place have stopped work, as is customary at this season, on account of warm weather. Business will be resumed on or about the first of September. The employees are now going to visit their former homes, and enjoy a summer of recreation; we wish them a great deal of pleasure, and hope to see them one and all return to our beautiful town, when the works are opened.

GROCERIES.—Our friend Levi A. Miller, is doing a splendid business at his Grocery Store, on Allegheny street, and is winning daily golden opinions for himself, as well as hosts of new customers. How can it be otherwise, when Levi devotes his whole time to his business, and in efforts to please his customers. He keeps none but the best of everything and sells at the most reasonable prices.

A. STERNBERG.—This go-ahead merchant is still at his post as full of enterprise and energy as ever. He has filled up his large and splendid room with an entire new stock of Goods, which he is selling at very remarkably low rates, for Sternberg says Bellefonte and Centre county is the place for him. He likes the people and they treat him well. It is his intention to live and die here.

WINE.—Wine, says Solomon, is a mocker; but whether he meant the pure juice of the grape we are not able to say. But one thing we are certain of, to wit: Frank P. Green has received a large quantity of California Wine the pure juice of the Grape. He has one of his windows filled in pyramidal style with bottles of pure Catawba and other choice brands. He sells it for Sacramental purposes and in cases of sickness. Knowing us to be temperate he has never sent us a bottle. Of course not.

DIMOND DRUG STORE.—Frank S. Wilson has just received at his splendid Drug Store another large lot of pure and fresh Drugs, fancy articles, brushes, &c., &c.

Frank is one of our very best and most enterprising citizens, and deserves the large patronage he is daily receiving. The Doctors as well as the people, all know Frank and feel confident when he prepares a prescription it is right and no mistake. May he continue to prosper.

SOME BUSINESS.—We learn from the Altoona Sun, that nine hundred and sixty-six loaded cars reached Tyrone last week from the Tyrone and Clearfield Branch alone. At an average of eleven tons per car the aggregate would be 10,626 tons. This was the heaviest week's work ever accomplished on this road, and affords some idea of the rapidly increasing business on that line. Those who know the rate charged per ton can also form some idea of the revenues to the road's treasury. Under the superintendency of Wm. Wilkins the management is as perfect as it is possible to make. When first operated, twenty cars were considered a very heavy train. Now fifty and as high as seventy cars are frequently brought down in perfect safety—so perfect and harmonious is the system and discipline established.

LOCAL EDITING.—There is perhaps no calling in which a man may try harder and fail farther short of pleasing the public than in that of editing a local newspaper. If he writes upon a question which touches the good of a community, he is said to be meddling with things that do not concern him. If he eulogises the town council as neglecting or doing what in his opinion they should not, the council is "square down on him," and others say he knows nothing about it. If he exposes wrong, rowdyism, etc., he is in danger of getting "whipped" when he goes on the street. If he writes about the weather, they say, "we all know that." No matter whether he devotes one or five columns to what he can gather each week, the cry is "There is nothing in the little sheet. Why don't it have locals?" Expressions cannot be given to the good it does an editor to get compliments from some one who takes pity on him. So seldom do they come that they are cherished as rare luxuries.

The best way we believe for an editor to do, is to use his utmost endeavors to please himself, and ten chances to one he will succeed better than by trying to please everybody.—Altoona Sun.

BEAUTIFUL.—"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," was the thought that came to our mind during a recent examination of the dwelling house of our good natured fellow citizen A. Sussman, who has had said dwelling renovated and repainted throughout in the latest and best style. The workmanship through out is neatly executed and cannot be excelled by any other private residence in this place.

By this improvement Mr. Sussman has shown that he has a good decorative taste, combining the useful with the ornamental, as he can now boast of having a residence as finely finished as that of any other citizen or merchant in the place. Our wish is that he and his amiable lady may live many years to enjoy the accumulated fruits of honest persevering industry.

The painting, frescoing, &c., was done by Messrs. Charles Dugan and D. S. Dunham, who we believe have no superiors in their branch of business.

REPREHENSIBLE.—Too much care cannot be exercised by people who are fond of that one-sided sort of fun known as practical joking, to avoid carrying it to an extreme. Sudden frights, especially when the victim is a female or a person of nervous temperament, often result in the greatest harm, and practical jokers should be cautious about perpetrating a joke by means of a severe fright, and we therefore think the conduct of the young persons engaged in frightening parties, at the bridge which leads to Chesterville, reprehensible. On Friday night some young men stationed themselves at this point, one of whom was provided with a sheet for the purpose of personating a ghost, and as two ladies were passing he sprang from his concealment. Fortunately the ladies were strong of nerve, and a bright moon assisting them, they discovered the imposition. Shortly after, a young man was passing when the counterfeit ghost again appeared, but he grappled with his ghostship stripping him of his false colors and making the discovery that instead of an etherial spirit it was one of our young men in flesh and blood. Such proceedings are wrong and should never be indulged in. In this instance we forbear giving names, believing it was done from thoughtlessness rather than malice prepense, but cannot promise to be as charitable in the next case of the kind.—Philipsburg Journal.

TO THE worthy members, officers and brethren of Bellefonte Lodge, No. 268, A. Y. M.

WHEREAS, In the dispensation of an Allwise Providence, our late Brother, James McCullough, has been called from our midst, and

WHEREAS, It is due that this Lodge of which he was a venerable and respected member, should, in some appropriate manner give expression to its sense of regret and bereavement; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in our late Brother McCullough, with whom we have been long associated as brother and fellow-citizen, we recognized those elements most ennobling and elevating in mankind.

Resolved, That we ever found him a true Mason and a shining illustration of the beauties of our loved order.

Resolved, That while we deplore his loss, we recognize in it the hand of Him to whom our brother has gone to receive his reward for well doing.

Resolved, That our individual and associate sentiments of regret and sorrow over the decease of our late brother be embodied in these resolutions, and that a copy of the same be forwarded to the widow of the deceased.

Resolved, That this Lodge now be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That our Borough papers be furnished with a copy of these resolutions with a request that they be published.

Warren Lodge, No. 250, Rev. Trowbridge, one of the Grand Lodge lecturers.

The minutes of the last convention, held at Howard, were read and adopted.

The Rev. J. Trowbridge, gave to the convention a lengthy review of the workings and prosperity of the lodges in his vicinity and called upon the delegates for a report from their respective lodges which was received. The convention then adjourned to meet at 7½ o'clock, at a public lecture in the hall.

Tuesday morning session opened by singing and prayer. D. R. Nelson, in the chair.

When Pine Grove Mills Lodge, No. 220 was called, Bro. W. H. Musser was admitted and reported Mountain Home Lodge, in good working condition.

The chairman of committee on resolutions, reported the following.

Resolved, That Lodges in the District be, and are hereby urged to take active measures to renovate such extinct or dormant lodges as may be located near them, by sending delegates and speakers to create an interest, and encourage said Lodges, and get them again in good working order.

Resolved, That in the presence, acquaintance, addresses and lectures of our worthy brother, Rev. J. Trowbridge, we have been mutually benefitted and stimulated to action against "Rum and Ruin." We, therefore, tender to him our sincere thanks for his visit and labors amongst us, and pray that on his mission in behalf of the fallen, he may be cheered by signal victories.

Resolved, That the convention appreciate the kindness and hospitality of Hon. John Brooks, and tender him our sincere thanks for the gratuitous use of his fine Hall, and the interest he and his, manifested in our cause.

Resolved, That the convention also tender its thanks to the Star of Enterprise Lodge, and also to the people of Sinnemahoning for the kind and hospitable manner in which we have been received and entertained by them while remaining with them, and for the unremitting efforts made by them for the furtherance of the cause, and also that we congratulate them upon the fact that they have almost entirely banished the hydra headed monster Intemperance from their midst, and that they are not at present cursed by any of those lawful bells known as licensed houses.

Resolved, That Lodges be advised to have public lectures as often as possible, and as mild pledges are a stepping-stone to total abstinence, and indifferent individuals are more apt to take a moderate dose of temperance at first, and advance gradually, and they are more apt to take a step in the right direction when their minds are brought to bear upon the subject by impressive lectures; that the Lodges be advised to circulate such pledges after holding said meetings.

The above resolutions were discussed by the following named delegates, at length, Rev. Crone, J. M. Shaffer, Rev. Ganoe, and by Bro's Leech and Nelson, as also by sister Rothrock, Dance, Brown and Brooks. When the convention adjourned to meet at 1½ o'clock, p. m.

The convention met at 2 o'clock, p. m and S. B. Chase, G. W. C. T., in the chair, the convention opened by singing and prayer by Rev. Ganoe, Chaplain, when the business committee offered the following:

Resolved, That in view of the fact that many members of the Order are known to have Withdrawn, owing to the want of order, and what appears to them trifling; that we strenuously enjoined upon the Worthy Chief Templer of the several Lodges in this District the necessity of moderation, dignity and order during the business hours of their Lodges.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in all the county papers of the several counties of this District, (i. e.,) Cameron, Centre, Clinton and Lycoming; also in the Keystone Good Templar.

On motion the convention proceeded to the election of officers for the next convention which resulted as follows:

Bro. W. V. Ganoe, D. W. C. T.; Sister Emma Brown, W. V.; W. Allison, jr., Sec'y; C. F. Barkla, Treasurer.

On motion of J. M Shaffer, our next convention be held at Renova, Jewel Lodge, No. 249, to meet on the 6th day of September next, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

G. W. C. T., S. B. Chase, then opened a degree Lodge and gave instructions in the unwritten work of the order, conferring degrees upon all members qualified to receive them. The business of the convention having been transacted the convention adjourned to meet on the 6th day of Sept., at 2 o'clock, p. m., at Renova Clinton County, Pa.

W. ALLISON, JR., Secretary.

RIGHT.—We are happy to announce that B. V. Black, our energetic and gentlemanly butcher has resolved to obey the divine injunction, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," so far as butchering on that day is concerned. He says he cannot believe that any man ever got rich by working on the Sabbath, and he shall continue the practice no longer. Nice Lamb, Mutten, and Veal can always be had on Mond ay morning. We congratulate Mr. Black, on his determination in this matter. He will no doubt prosper in consequence, and surely receive the divine blessing.

From ocean unto ocean,
And now couple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

WEDNESDAY MORNING May.25, '70

THE GOOD TIME COMING.

There's a good time coming.
And the happy day draws nigh,
When the ladies, heaven bless them,
For their "rights" no more shall cry;
When our laws shall be constructed,
By ladies young and strong,
Instead of the "Old Grannies"
Who have ruled our land so long,
The wrong is growing weak.
And the right is growing stronger—
There's a good time coming, girls,
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming
And it is not far away,
When the ladies shall be voters,
And the men at home shall stay;
When the ladies shall be rulers,
And will make our laws just right,
And the morn of truth and justice
Will succeed dark error's night,—
The wrong is growing weak,
And the right is growing stronger;
There's a good time coming, girls,—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming,
And even now has come;
Away out in Wyoming,
Toward the setting sun,
In that blest land of liberty,
They have made a mighty row,
And the men are washing dishes,
While the ladies vote and plow,—
The wrong is growing weak.
And the right is growing stronger;
There's a good time coming girls,
Wait a little longer.

Clover as a Fertilizer.

In a private letter, Samuel Williams of Waterloo, N. Y., drops the following suggestions, which we take the liberty of publishing:

Prof. Voelcker says that clover gains more ammonia and nitric acid from the atmosphere, than it takes from the soil. One great reason why the sandy soils of Long Island are so soon exhausted, is for the want of clover growing to plow in, and from the want of a little mineral matter, soluble bone, lime ashes, plaster, &c. On the worn out lands of the South where plaster alone does no good when mixed with leached ashes and some salt its effects are magical, and enables the soil to grow clover, which, when plowed in, supplies the soil with all the elements of plant food, besides creating in it an atmosphere of carbonic acid to dissolve the mineral elements and make them available.

Horace Greeley gives good advice to a young man of the city who goes to farming, "To hire out a year to the very best farmer who will pay for his services," He thus learns to farm at his teacher's expense, instead of his own, as he would have to do by blundering on his own land. But some of Greeley's farm wisdom, like his high tariff notions, is a little one-sided. He says, "Good land is always cheaper than poor land." It may be in the country, but no good land near New York can be bought at a price that its products will pay the cost of production and the interest on the cost of the land. But on the plains of Long Island, almost within hail of New York, there are thousands of acres of arable, well drained, shrub oak plains to be bought cheaply, all being so near the moist atmosphere of the ocean as to be in the best grass climate in the world; and which needs nothing to enable it to grow the largest crops, but that which is daily wasted in the city, or suffered to remain a plague spot on the public health!

But if, owing to the insular position of New York, the waste of the city cannot be made economically available the soil of the adjacent plains may be made semperfertile at very little expense. There is no portion of the plains so poor but that, after the land is well cleared and the brush burned, it may be made to produce a large crop of red clover at the expense of a few dollars per acre; and when once a full crop of clover is grown, the victory is gained; because a green crop of clover plowed in, is the most permanent of all amendments to the soil. It not only supplies the mineral and organic elements, but it also acts mechanically to make the soil hold water in time of drought, while its nascent carbonic acid acts as a solvent to other matters in the soil. One great reason why bone dust and horn shavings so often fail to fertilize the soil, is their present insolubility.—Even plaster fails to become soluble until it has received four hundred times its weight in rain water; but when thus dissolved, it is a valuable manure not only in itself, but when sprinkled on a manure heap or fermenting manure. The sulphuric acid of the plaster fixes the escaping volatile carbonate ammonia into a non-volatile but very soluble sulphate of ammonia one of the most active organic manures.—From the N. Y. Observer.

A Powder test.—A Canadian didn't believe a keg of powder which he had just received was good, so he threw a coal of fire into it. Several of the shingles of the roof were found, smuggled across the river into America.—It is also believed the man has emigrated, as he has not been seen at home since the occurrence, although one of his legs was found in Lower Canada.

The sixteenth annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar of the State of Pennsylvania will be held at Williamsport, commencing on the 14th of next month and continuing three days. The Sir Knights will occupy canvas tents during the session of the conclave, and drill on horseback. The encampmen grounds will be in the Herdic Park.

Lime Around Apple Trees.

A writer in the Rural World states that "some farmers make it a regular practice for a succession of years to throw caustic lime around their apple trees in spring and summer. We once noticed that a tree standing in the immediate vicinity of our dwelling had all at once put forth with renewed energy, and we were at a loss for some time to divine the cause. On examination, we found that a quantity of lime, which had accidentally been spilled and rendered worthless by becoming mixed with the refuse on the stable floor, had been thrown at the foot and around the tree, and to this, as the principal cause, we immediately accredited the revives cence and renewed fructification of the tree.

"Taking the hint from the incident we purchased 12 casks of lime, and applied half a bushel to each of the trees, in our orchard, and found that it produced immediate beneficial effects. Not the health of the tree only, but the quality of the fruit also, was greatly improved. This application will be especially beneficial in soils where there is a redundancy of vegetable matter. We would advise our farmers to make a trial of this experiment."

THE RAVAGES OF INSECTS.—We may say positively that destructive insects are increasing every year, and that they destroy as great an amount of food as is saved. To meet these scourges will require our best efforts. The science of Entomology, by which insects are classified and their nature studied is becoming of national importance and we are sure that without its help little will be done. The first step in every pursuit is analysis, by which we seperate a whole into parts, upon each of which attention is to be fixed. Here progress commences.

One of the first results in this study is to make distinction between insects that are useful and injurious, for unless this be done one will be as likely to destroy his friends as his enemies. At present this study is so far from being popular, that the greater part of educated men, so called, are as ignorant as the unlettered. It is manifest that the elements of this science should be taught in our common schools, if it is to become of much use; for the transmission of learning directly from the learned few to the common people without the intervention of a teacher, is imposible. In fitting teachers for their duties, a knowledge of this science should be included among their qualifications, as much as of arithmetic or grammar.—N. Y. T. F. Club.

Planting Potatoes.

The Rev. C. E. Goodrich, previous to his death who, by the way, experimented extensively in developing new varieties wrote as follows about planting the seed and cultivating the growing plants:

Let your seed be usually all in one piece, and, of course, be deposited in one place. The vines emanating from one point will readily find a place for all the tubers they can elaborate, if the soil be kept loose. If the seed be spread in the hill, while only a given space (say three by three) be allowed for the hill, the total weight of vines capable of being grown on that space will be the same, whether one piece or two be used. In the use of a single, moderate sized, uncut tuber for seed, I have often grown fifteen pounds to a hill.

Cultivate your hills, leaving the soil level in all cases where it is dry. Elevated hills are more sensitive to dry hot, or cold weather than level ones, and thus make a less healthful growth. With deep planting and loose culture the tubers will always find a place to bury themselves beneath a level surface.

Petroleum as Paint.

Crude petroleum is not only useful for painting buildings, but is the best preservative for all manner of farm implements, wood or iron. As soon as it becomes dry, any tool may be handled without the least annoyance. For priming, when other paint is to be used, petroleum is not only the cheapest but the best material to be found. We have between three and four hundred garden sashes in use. A portion of these were painted two years ago with Prince's mineral paint and linseed oil. This is now so nearly gone that it has been necessary to oil the sashes to keep them from decaying. The other were oiled with petroleum when new, and afterward received one coat of the same paint, which seems now as fresh and solid as when it was firstputon. This oil costs from twenty-five cents to thirty cents per gallon, and the only precaution necessary in its use is to have no fire about until it has been spread for a few hours, long enough for the most volatile and inflammable parts to have evapporated.—Evening Post.

Apple Borer.

Dr. Hull's mode of applying soap, to exclude the borer, as stated in the Prairie Farmer, is "to bring soft soap to the boiling point to render it liquid and while the soap is hot, to apply it with a whitewash brush to the trunks of the trees, from the ground up as the attack of the borer is to be apprehended; "the application to be made about the first of June. We have for years tried a similar remedy, which much lessened the attacks of the borers, but did not wholly exclude them. We have found it necessary to go over subsequently and dig out any young borers with the point of the knife. Every one who expects to raise a fine crop of any kind of fruit, must make calculations to fight bugs, beetles, borers; worms, moths, caterpillars, and several species of bipeds. And he must begin when the trees commence growing, to dispute his rights and to assert his authority, or he will stand a poor chance of getting much fruit.

CUT-WORM.—The Practical Farmer recommends the application of refuse salt, broadcast, at the rate of six to eight bushels to the acre, as a remedy for cut-worms, and other worms.—Salt seems particularly obnoxious to every form of insect life, and spread broad cast on a freshly-plowed surface often has a powerful effect.

THE GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY!

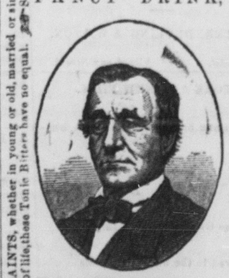
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS.

MORE THAN 500,000 PERSONS Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,



Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine made from the native Roots and Herbs of California free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and Life Giving Principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator, of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins: cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

In Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, these Bitters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

J. WALKER. Prop'r. 32 Commerce, St., N. Y. R. A. McDONALD & CO., Druggist, and general Agents, San Francisco and Sacramento, California, and 32 & 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. v2n13-3m.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as an Invigorant to the Uterine Organs. Send for a circular. As a remedy for Kidney Complaint, or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Viscera Organs, they are unequaled, and as an aperient, acting with specific power upon the Digestive Apparatus, they are a perfect Cathartic.

This company is composed of practicable mechanics, and Samuel Adams, one of the Co., has been foreman of the Bellefonte Planing Mill since its commencement.

Connected with the mill, and in operation at all times, is one of the latest improved COKE DRYING KILNS; which leaves the lumber in a perfectly healthy state, assists in preserving it, and in fact adds to its lasting qualities, while other methods of drying deteriorate, and renders it more liable TO DECAY AND WASTE.

Lumber dried in a Coke kiln, is dried perfectly, and when worked and put up, will not SHRIVEL AND SHRINK, thus giving buildings the appearance of having been erected out of Green Material

We know that our facilities give us every advantage over other PLANING MILLS IN THIS SECTION and we feel perfectly free in saying, that all our WORK WILL BE GUARANTEED, to be of A SUPERIOR QUALITY.

We will furnish anything in our line from a door panel, to a WHOLE HOUSE, and at such prices, as cannot but prove to be an inducement to THOSE DESIRING TO BUILD.
